

Farmer Dinner Fundraisers

This series of 3 Farmer Dinner Fundraisers has been created to support the farmers who were impacted by the floods caused by Tropical storm Irene.

Our farmers who grow and sell to local restaurants, stores, markets, and families are left with destroyed crops, and a season that they cannot recover from. These farmers and friends tirelessly and creatively farm in Burlington's Intervale, and sustain the food community that is so strong in Burlington, Vermont. We cook their food at home, we eat it at the local restaurants, and buy it at the local grocery store--they sustain us, and now is an opportunity to support and help them.

Each dinner in the series is different and priced to reach different members of the community that want to help. The location, supplies, and ingredients have been donated by local businesses, organizations, restaurants, and other Vermont farms wanting to help. The effort to organize and create the events is a collaboration between community members who have stepped forward to host, cook, and contribute to the farmers' recovery.

If you are unable to attend but would like to help, please consider donating to the Intervale Center Farmers Recovery Fund

Dinner 3:

Wednesday, October 19, 2011

Old North End Studio, 294 North Winooski Avenue, Burlington, VT

Time: 6:00–8:30

Minimum donation, $10

This dinner is the result of a the supportive community in Burlington's Old North End and is hosted by the Old North End Studio, Old North End Arts and Business Network, and Andrea Todd, Megan Humphrey, and Jen Berger. It is a potluck style dinner with live music by local musicians by Jeff Fellingner and friends. The main culinary focus of the dinner is fried chicken, and folks are asked to bring a dish to share that would go with fried chicken. People can use their inspiration to create a diverse and creative assortment of food to share. Suggested dishes: potatoes, rice, beans, cooked or raw greens, breads, salads, or desserts. Chickens have been donated by Rockville Market Farm, Starksboro,

VT, and will be cooked up by local amateur cook, Andrea Todd. A cash bar provided by the Skinny Pancake will be available, and proceeds generated will be donated to the Intervale Center Farmers Recovery Fund.
